SCT 2027 – the international networking conference on steels in cars and trucks will take place in September 6–10, 2027!

Steel is the number one material in automotive engineering. In internal combustion engine technology (ICE), it shapes developments relating to the powertrain, chassis and bodywork. And steel remains indispensable in electromobility: Modern high-strength and ultra-high-strength steels enable lightweight, safe and cost-effective vehicle structures, protect battery systems in the event of a crash and, thanks to their excellent recyclability, make a significant contribution to sustainable mobility. At the same time, demands for safety, efficiency, CO₂ footprint, resource conservation and cost-effectiveness are rising throughout the entire value chain.

With around 400 participants and 150 specialist presentations, SCT 2027 is the leading international conference for innovative steels, processing technologies and system solutions in passenger car and commercial vehicle manufacturing. It brings together vehicle manufacturers, suppliers, steel producers, plant engineers and research institutions, and promotes the exchange of ideas on current developments and future solutions for the mobility of tomorrow.

As a sponsor or exhibitor, you can position your company within a high-calibre international environment and showcase your expertise directly to the industry's key players.
